Once upon a time, there was a hedgehog named Sedge. He was a large hedgehog who loved to eat oranges. Angie giraffe, Sedge's friend, had a huge neck and could gently pick oranges. Angie was very generous. She always shared the oranges she picked with Sedge. In addition to loving oranges, Sedge loved fudge. He often had a smudgy, fudgy face. Sedge wanted to be generous too. He shared his fudge with Angie. Now, they have picnics that always include oranges and fudge. First, they eat their oranges.

Next, Angie and Sedge eat their fudge. When finished, their tummies usually feel gigantic. Then they take a walk followed by a nap.
