

Awadhi Food Festival

Hotel Samrat Heavens Celebrates Scrumptious Awadhi food festival at Ghar Road Meerut .

One such celebrated cuisines of India comes from the land of the Nawabs – Awadh (Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh). Not to be mistaken as a ‘Mughal cuisine’, Awadhi food is largely influenced by the Kashmir, Punjab, Hyderabad and Central Asian cooking techniques. Quoted as the food for the royals, Awadhi food is rich in spices and specializes in both vegetarian and non-vegetarian dishes. From Kebabs, Biryanis, Sheermal or the Indian breads like Roomali rotis and Warqi Parathas; Awadhi food is a paradise for non-vegetarian (lamb & chicken meat) lovers. Also, Awadhi Bawarchis (chef) and Rakabdars (Gourmet Cooks) were the ones who introduced ‘dum style of cooking’ to the world as well.

With a rich history in food that can be documented in endless volumes, Awadhi cuisine has over the years faced many an alterations. The authenticity of this cuisine has slowly been diluted in this commercial world, with preparation techniques that are quick, cheap and appeal largely to the masses looking for ghee-floating ‘Mughlai Food’. But then there are certain royalties who are putting in the effort of bringing back the true meaning of Awadhi food and promoting it to the masses in the right manner.

Hotel Samrat Heavens has joined hands with Chef Javed Khan to present a 10 day festival celebrating the Awadhi Cuisine. Named ‘The Awadhi Food Festival’ So, when you are hungry or your stomach demands some delicious Kebabs, visit Hotel Samrat Heavens and enjoy the lazeez Awadhi food.
