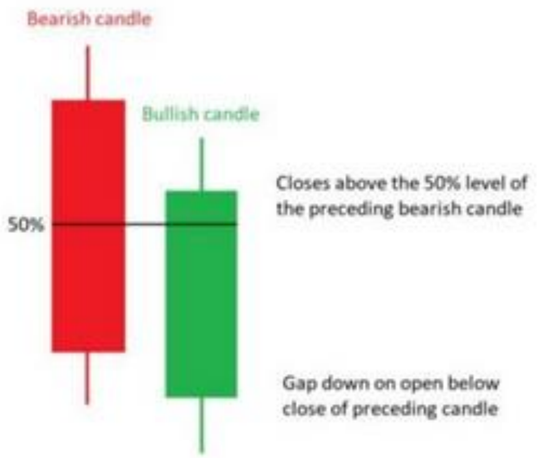
[1]. Piercing Pattern



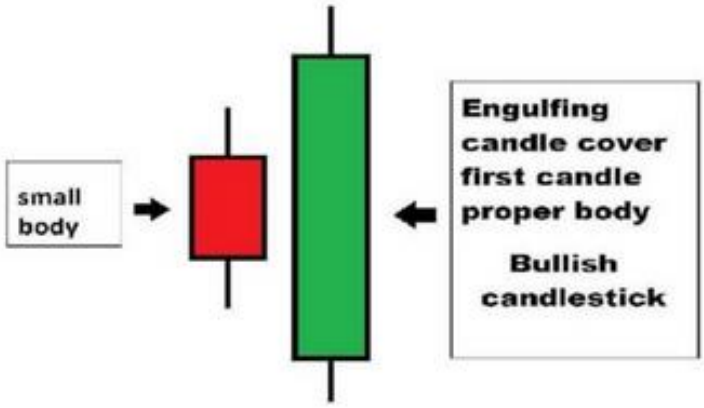
Piercing pattern is a multiple candlestick chart pattern formed after a downtrend indicating a bullish reversal.

Two candles form it, the first candle being a bearish candle which indicates the continuation of the downtrend.

The second candle is a bullish candle which opens the gap down but closes more than 50% of the real body of the previous candle, which shows that the bulls are back in the market and a bullish reversal is going to take place.

[1]@Uprize Trading Academy

[2]. Bullish Engulfing



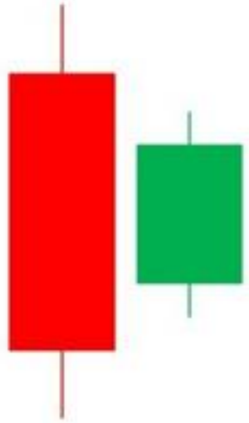
Bullish Engulfing is a multiple candlestick chart pattern that is formed after a downtrend indicating a bullish reversal.

It is formed by two candles, the second candlestick engulfing the first candlestick. The first candle is a bearish candle that indicates the continuation of the downtrend.

The second candlestick is a long bullish candle that completely engulfs the first candle and shows that the bulls are back in the market.

[2] @Uprize Trading Academy

3. Bullish Harami[3]



The Bullish Harami is multiple candlestick chart pattern which is formed after a downtrend indicating bullish reversal.

It consists of two candlestick charts, the first candlestick being a tall bearish candle and second being a small bullish candle which should be in the range of the first candlestick.

The first bearish candle shows the continuation of the bearish trend and the second candle shows that the bulls are back in the market.

[3] @Uprize Trading Academy

[4]. Tweezer Bottom

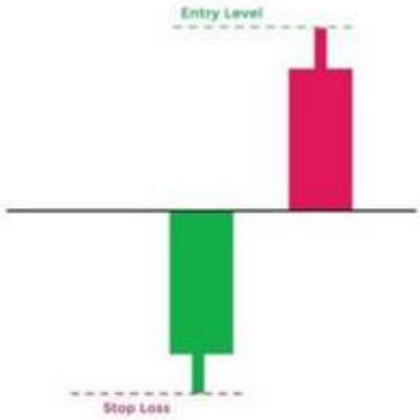
The Tweezer Bottom candlestick pattern is a bullish reversal candlestick pattern that is formed at the end of the downtrend.

It consists of two candlesticks, the first one being bearish and the second one being bullish candlestick.

Both the candlesticks make almost or the same low.When the Tweezer Bottom candlestick pattern is formed the prior trend is a downtrend.

[4] @Uprize Trading Academy

5. On Neck Pattern[5]

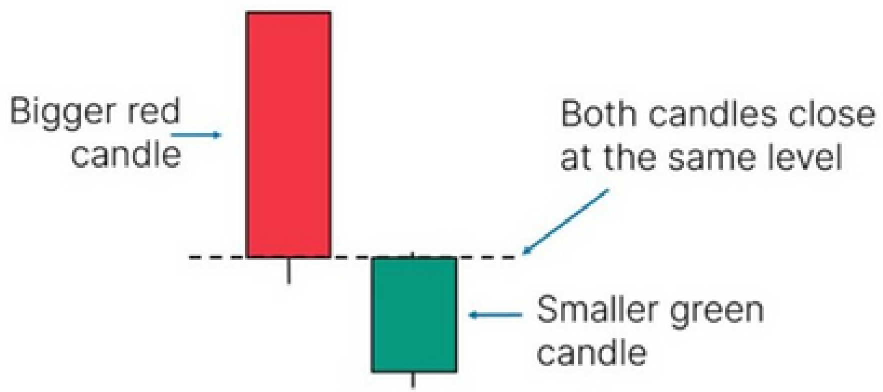


The on neck pattern occurs after a downtrend when a long real bodied bearish candle is followed by a smaller real bodied bullish candle which gaps down on the open but then closes near the prior candle's close.

The pattern is called a neckline because the two closing prices are the same or almost the same across the two candles, forming a horizontal neckline.

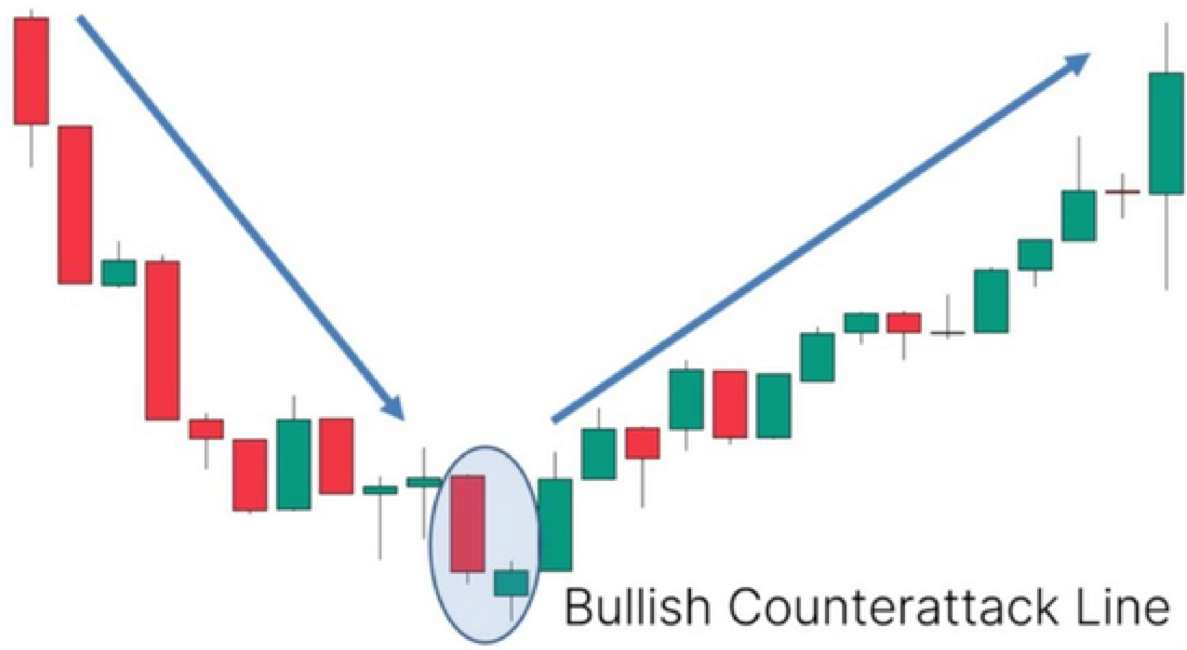
[5] @Uprize Trading Academy

[6]. Bullish Counterattack



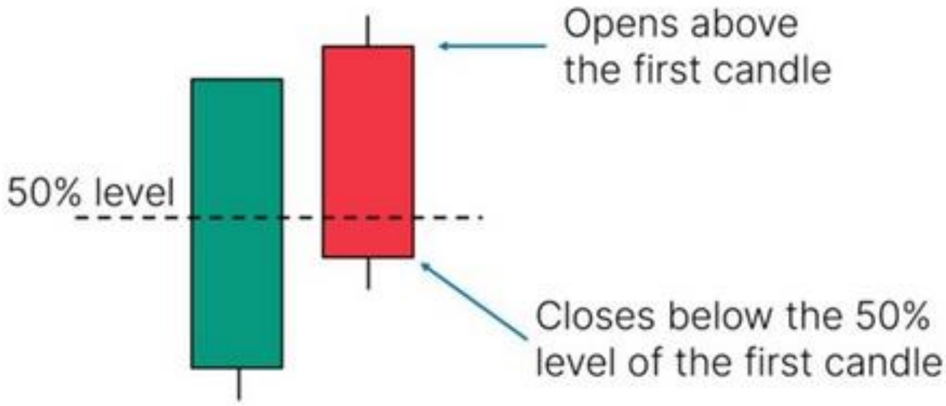
The bullish counterattack pattern is a bullish reversal pattern that predicts the upcoming reversal of the current downtrend in the market. This candlestick pattern is a two-bar pattern that appears during a downtrend in the market. A pattern needs to meet the following conditions to be a bullish counterattack pattern.

- There must be a strong downtrend in the market for the formation of the bullish counterattack pattern.
- The first candle must be a long red candle with a real body.
- The second candle must also be a long but a green candle with a real body. The second candle must close near the close of the first candle.



[6] @Uprize Trading Academy

7. Dark Cloud Cover[7]



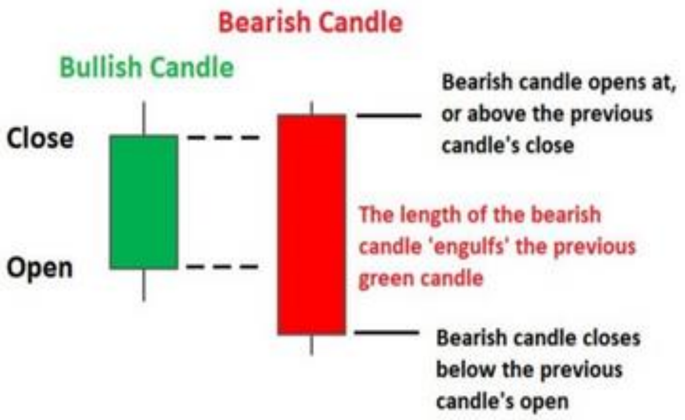
Dark Cloud Cover is a multiple candlestick pattern formed after the uptrend indicating bearish reversal.

It is formed by two candles, the first candle being a bullish candle which indicates the continuation of the uptrend.

The second candle is a bearish candle which opens the gap up but closes more than 50% of the real body of the previous candle which shows that the bears are back in the market and a bearish reversal is going to take place.

[7] @Uprize Trading Academy

[8]. Bearish Engulfing



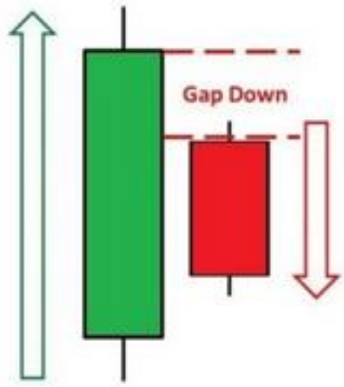
Bearish Engulfing is a multiple candlestick pattern that is formed after an uptrend indicating a bearish reversal.

It is formed by two candles, the second candlestick engulfing the first candlestick. The first candle being a bullish candle indicates the continuation of the uptrend.

The second candlestick chart is a long bearish candle that completely engulfs the first candle and shows that the bears are back in the market.

[8] @Uprize Trading Academy

9. Bearish Harami



The Bearish Harami is a multiple candlestick pattern formed after the uptrend indicating bearish reversal.

It consists of two candlesticks, the first candlestick being a tall bullish candle and second being a small bearish candle which should be in the range of the first candlestick chart.

The first bullish candle shows the continuation of the bullish trend and the second candle shows that the bears are back in the market.

[9] @Uprize Trading Academy

[10]. Tweezer Top

The Tweezer Top pattern is a bearish reversal candlestick pattern that is formed at the end of an uptrend.

It consists of two candlesticks, the first one being bullish and the second one being bearish candlestick. Both the tweezer candlestick make almost or the same high.

[10] @Uprize Trading Academy

[11]. Bearish Counterattack

The bearish counterattack candlestick pattern is a bearish reversal pattern that appears during an uptrend in the market. It predicts that the current uptrend in the market will make and the new downtrend will take over the market.

[11] @Uprize Trading Academy

[12]. Rising Window

The rising window is a candlestick pattern consisting of two bullish candlesticks with a gap between them. The gap is a space between the high and low of two candlesticks that occurs due to high trading volatility. It is a trend continuation candlestick pattern indicating strong strength of buyers in the market.

[12] @Uprize Trading Academy

[13]. Falling Window

The falling window is a candlestick pattern that consists of two bearish candlesticks with a gap between them. The gap is a space between the high and low of two candlesticks. it occurs due to high trading volatility. It is a trend continuation candlestick pattern and it is an indication of the strong strength of sellers in the market.

[13] @Uprize Trading Academy